

“Upper Main Street Clothesline” by Reven Swanson, installed in 2014 at the intersection of Park Avenue and Colfax Avenue.

This sculpture was built with six kinetic discs suspended on a steel cable between two swaying lightpoles. The discs are made of mild steel and are finished with brightly colored powder coats and enamel paints. The mix of kinetic movement, color and bouncing patterns reflects the ‘moving energy’ of Colfax Avenue – its commerce, culture, events, townships and people.

DENVER
ARTS & VENUES