

“I Have a Dream” by Ed Dwight, installed in 2001 in City Park.

“The intent of this monument is to provide a visual inspiration of Dr. King and his life,” said Mr. Dwight.

“There is only so much that our history books can describe about the struggle for freedom and civil rights. A visual memorial can help define the living legacy of the history and of Dr. King.”

The artwork also includes Mahatma Gandhi and Rosa Parks, who also fought for civil rights.
