Denver Central 70 Cover Park “Bookends” Public Art Project

Budget: $200,000.00 USD for two sculpture locations

Eligibility: Open to artists or artist teams residing in the state of Colorado

DEADLINE: Thursday, December 15, 2022, 11:59 pm MST

Introduction

The City and County of Denver’s Public Art Program seeks to commission an artist or artist team to create two original public artworks for the Central 70 Cover Park, located between Columbine and Clayton streets over Interstate 70 (I-70), in Denver, CO. A 16-member selection panel of community representatives, arts and design professionals, and civic leaders has been assembled to identify art opportunities, and to select and recommend an artist or artist team for this project. The selection panel has identified two “bookends” in the park for artworks and will select one artist or artist team for the allocated total budget of approximately $200,000.00 USD.

Land Acknowledgement

We acknowledge that the land Denver’s Public Art Collection occupies - - land where we stand, live, work and learn - - is the traditional territory of the Ute, Cheyenne, and Arapaho Peoples. We also recognize the 48 contemporary tribal nations that are historically tied to the lands that make up the state of Colorado. Our nation was founded upon, and continues to enact, exclusions and erasures of Indigenous Peoples. May this acknowledgement demonstrate a commitment to dismantling ongoing legacies of oppression and inequities, as we intentionally honor and celebrate the Indigenous communities in our city and express our gratitude for their ongoing and significant contributions. Let’s not forget that this land was theirs long before we made it ours.

About the Central 70 Project

The Central 70 Project reconstructs a 10-mile stretch of I-70 between Brighton Boulevard and Chambers Road, adds one new Express Lane in each direction, removes the aging 57-year-old viaduct, lowers the interstate between Brighton and Colorado boulevards and places a four-acre park over a portion of the lowered interstate. The four-acre park over the highway will reconnect the Elyria-Swansea neighborhoods and incorporate public art. The construction will be complete by the end of 2022.

About the Public Park

As part of the Central 70 Project, a four-acre park between Columbine and Clayton streets will be constructed over I-70 and serve as an active, vibrant community asset with opportunities for sporting events, outdoor movies, concerts, farmers markets and more. The park includes an amphitheater, walking paths, garden areas, a soccer field, splash pad, tot lot and playground. It is also directly adjacent to Swansea Elementary School. Columbine and Clayton streets will cross the park on either end with additional park features on the outer edges of each street.

Globeville, Elyria-Swansea Neighborhoods

The Globeville, Elyria-Swansea neighborhoods are located along the eastern bank of the South Platte River in north Denver. In addition to the river, major physical landmarks in the neighborhood include the Denver Coliseum, the National Western Complex, the Nestlé Purina factory, and the Swansea Elementary School. In the mid-19th century, the area was highly valued by industry and commerce because of the flat terrain and proximity to the South Platte River. With industry, especially smelting and meat packing, came settlement, housing and a strong workforce. Industry, railroads and housing grew together over the years. Although the smelters are now gone and the meat packing industry is diminished, a strong industrial presence remains, as does an established and diverse residential community. Strong community cohesion and civic pride bolster the neighborhoods even when presented with issues that cause major challenges for their quality of life, including gentrification. Many significant changes are on the neighborhoods' immediate horizon, including new commuter rail transit stations, changes to I-70, and new development at the National Western Complex.

Goals, Site, Media & Materials

The selection panel members have set forth specific goals and parameters for this public art project with the hope of creating unique and inspiring works of art for the diverse communities that will visit the Central 70 Cover Park.

Goals:

The panel is very invested in cultural diversity, local history and community resiliency, and aspires to create gathering spaces that are inclusive, accessible and welcoming to all. The panel hopes to see artworks that reflect the rich cultures of the area, both current and historical. The artworks should demonstrate a connection to the community and be inspiring, inter-generational and innovative, and have an educational focus. The works could also be playful and kid-friendly. Artists should consider the unique location of the park and accessibility for all. Electricity to the site is not available, therefore any lighting or other electrical needs should be solar- or wind-generated.

Site:

The panel has identified two "bookend" locations area for sculptural works. One sculpture will be located on the Columbine Street end of the park and one sculpture on the Clayton Street end of the park. Renderings are attached at the end of this document. Finalists will have the opportunity to meet with the selection panel as well as Colorado Department of Transportation and Denver Parks and Recreation staff, Denver Public Art staff and designers on the project to ask specific questions about the site.

Media & Materials:

Artworks could be created using diverse media. Durability and ease of maintenance are important at this location. The selection panel is open to artwork in all media and materials that are suitable for outdoor display.

Maintenance & Durability

This artwork will become a permanent addition to the Denver Public Art collection. All applicants must consider the issues of long-term conservation and maintenance of public art, along with time and budget. Public art projects should be fabricated of highly durable, low-maintenance materials. Finalists are encouraged to consult with a professional conservator prior to the submission of a final proposal. Artist proposals awarded contracts will be reviewed by the City and County of Denver's Public Art Committee to ensure conformity with city standards of maintenance and durability, as well as ADA standards. All finalists are expected to stay on budget and to complete work in an approved time frame.

Diversity and Inclusiveness

Denver Executive Order No. 101 establishes strategies between the City and private industry to use diversity and inclusiveness to promote economic development in the City and County of Denver and to encourage more businesses to compete for City contracts and procurements. The Executive Order requires, among other things, the collection of certain information regarding the practices of the City's contractors and consultants toward diversity and inclusiveness and encourages/requires City agencies to include diversity and inclusiveness policies in selection criteria in solicitations for City services or goods when legally permitted. Diversity and Inclusiveness means inviting values, perspectives and contributions of people from diverse backgrounds, and integrates diversity into its hiring and retention policies, training opportunities, and business development methods to provide an equal opportunity for each person to participate, contribute and succeed within the organization's workplace. "Diversity" encompasses a wide variety of human differences, including differences such as race, age, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, ethnicity, physical disabilities, appearance, and historically underutilized and disadvantaged persons, as well as social identities such as religion, marital status, socio-economic status, lifestyle, education, parental status, geographic background, language ability and veteran status.
